

Novelty: operators are induced from typed validation residuals, not from successful-program compression or generic text feedback.